

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

Ronald J. Allison,

Plaintiff

v.

Stein Treatment Teams,

Defendant

Case No. 2:21-cv-01883-JAD-EJY

Order Dismissing and Closing Case

Plaintiff Ronald J. Allison brings this civil-rights lawsuit to redress constitutional violations that he claims he suffered while detained at Southern Nevada Adult Mental Health Services. On October 18, 2021, this court ordered the plaintiff to file a complaint in compliance with Local Special Rule 2-1 (LSR 2-1) and either pay the $402 filing fee or file a complete application to proceed in forma pauperis by December 17, 2021.¹ That deadline expired, and plaintiff did not file a complaint in compliance with LSR 2-1, pay the fee, file an application to proceed in forma pauperis, or seek to extend the deadline to do so.

District courts have the inherent power to control their dockets and “[i]n the exercise of that power, they may impose sanctions including, where appropriate . . . dismissal” of a case.² A court may dismiss an action based on a party’s failure to obey a court order or comply with local rules.³ In determining whether to dismiss an action on this ground, the court must consider: (1)

² Thompson v. Hous. Auth. of City of Los Angeles, 782 F.2d 829, 831 (9th Cir. 1986).

³ Malone v. U.S. Postal Service, 833 F.2d 128, 130 (9th Cir. 1987) (dismissal for failure to comply with court order); Henderson v. Duncan, 779 F.2d 1421, 1424 (9th Cir. 1986) (dismissal for lack of prosecution and failure to comply with local rules).

1 the public's interest in expeditious resolution of litigation; (2) the court's need to manage its 2 docket; (3) the risk of prejudice to the defendants; (4) the public policy favoring disposition of
 3 cases on their merits; and (5) the availability of less drastic alternatives.⁴

4 The first two factors, the public's interest in expeditiously resolving this litigation and the 5 court's interest in managing its docket, weigh in favor of dismissal of the plaintiff's claims. The 6 third factor, risk of prejudice to defendants, also weighs in favor of dismissal because a 7 presumption of injury arises from the occurrence of unreasonable delay in prosecuting an 8 action.⁵ The fourth factor—the public policy favoring disposition of cases on their merits—is 9 greatly outweighed by the factors favoring dismissal.

10 The fifth factor requires the court to consider whether less drastic alternatives can be used
 11 to correct the party's failure that brought about the court's need to consider dismissal.⁶ Courts 12 “need not exhaust every sanction short of dismissal before finally dismissing a case, but must 13 explore possible and meaningful alternatives.”⁷ Because this court cannot operate without 14 collecting reasonable fees, and litigation cannot progress with a plaintiff's compliance with court
 15 order, the only alternative is to enter a second order setting another deadline. But issuing a 16 second order will only delay the inevitable and further squander the court's finite resources.

18 ⁴ In re Phenylpropanolamine Prod. Liab. Litig., 460 F.3d 1217, 1226 (9th Cir. 2006) (quoting 19 Malone v. U.S. Postal Serv., 833 F.2d 128, 130 (9th Cir. 1987)).

20 ⁵ See Anderson v. Air West, 542 F.2d 522, 524 (9th Cir. 1976).

21 ⁶ Yourish v. Cal. Amplifier, 191 F.3d 983, 992 (9th Cir. 1999) (explaining that considering less 22 drastic alternatives before the party has disobeyed a court order does not satisfy this factor); 23 accord Pagtalunan v. Galaza, 291 F.3d 639, 643 & n.4 (9th Cir. 2002) (explaining that “the persuasive force of” earlier Ninth Circuit cases that “implicitly accepted pursuit of last drastic alternatives prior to disobedience of the court's order as satisfying this element[,]” i.e., like the “initial granting of leave to amend coupled with the warning of dismissal for failure to comply[,]” have been “eroded” by Yourish).

⁷ Henderson, 779 F.2d at 1424.

1 Setting another deadline is not a meaningful alternative given these circumstances. So the fifth
2 factor favors dismissal.

3 Having thoroughly weighed these dismissal factors, I find that they weigh in favor of 4 dismissal. IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that THIS ACTION IS DISMISSED without 5 prejudice based on the plaintiff's failure to file a complaint in compliance with LSR 2-1, pay the 6 filing fee or seek to proceed in forma pauperis in compliance with the court's order. The Clerk
7 of Court is directed to ENTER JUDGMENT accordingly and CLOSE THIS CASE. If Ronald 8 J. Allison wishes to pursue his claims, he must file a complaint in a new case, and he must pay 9 the fee for that action or file a complete application to proceed in forma pauperis.
